Firing Mode Switch

Machine Gun Mode (AF+AR)

This is a combination of auto fire and auto reload. Constant depression of the trigger will cause the gun to fire continuously until the magazine has been emptied. The gun will then auto reload (to set the number of rounds between reloads see Auto Reload).

Auto Reload

This mode allows the gun to reload the bullets automatically. (to set the numbers of reload bullet, you need to hold the B-button first, without releasing the B-button, press and release the A-button. The number of reload bullets is the time that A-button being pressed(the maximum numbers of reload bullet depending on the game required.)

Auto Fire

This mode allows you to press and hold the trigger for rapid firing.

Normal

This mode allows you to fire a single shot every time you pull yhe trigger.

Gun Mode Switch

You must select the correct mode for the type of game you are playing, either "Guncon 2™", "Guncon™" or "PSX"; please see your game's instruction manual. Normally, games by NAMCO will use the "Guncon 2™" and "Guncon™" mode.

Note: If you use the wrong mode, the gun will not be detected by the console.

Reload Pedal

The reload pedal can be used to reload the bullets in your gun by simply pressing and releasing the pedal with your foot.
